

Juniors Fete Seniors at Elaborate Banquet

The graduating class and faculty of Torrance high school were the guests of the Junior class at the eighth annual junior-senior banquet on Saturday evening, June 7, at the Women's club house. Precedent has established this as the most important social function of the school year.

Complimenting the honor guests, the senior colors and motto were used as the theme of the occasion. "Friendship is treasure greater than gold" gave a motif of ships and was carried out in green and silver with the pink of the class flowers—the pink rose. Eleven ships, each three feet long, were used as centerpieces on the tables. These carried cargoes of roses, gladioli, delphinium, buddleia and ferns. Sails of green and silver cellophane were secured to the masts with silver cords. Between ships on the tables were ribbons of asparagus fern and pink gladioli. Small green ships with cellophane sails held candles and nuts, and the garlands of these ships were the place cards. Programs were steamer trunks with silver straps.

Mrs. Richard Smith took over the construction of the large ship and the decoration of the tables, and under her deft fingers the effect was most charming. Jean Smith, chairman of the decoration committee, secured her mother's co-operation and the juniors feel a keen sense of appreciation for Mrs. Smith's beautiful work.

Miss Ada Chase offered to do the orchestra platform and with a corps of assistants from the class made a very lovely background for the tables. Greenery and pink gladioli were used in profusion in this part of the room.

Mrs. Carleton Bell served a most delicious banquet. Mrs. Bell has made a unique place for herself in the hearts of the boys and girls at the high school, and the juniors considered themselves fortunate when she agreed to take this responsibility. Mrs. J. W. Barnes, Mrs. Anna Bay, Mrs. L. G. Dan-ford, Mrs. J. S. Lancaster, Mrs. Sam Rappaport, Mrs. A. P. Stevenson, Mrs. E. V. Tavan and Mrs. Charles Ward assisted Mrs. Bell in the preparation and serving of the dinner.

Many people had a share in making this year's banquet a success. Mr. and Mrs. Steffy contributed several hundred dozen gladioli, the C. C. M. O. Plant sent armful of five-foot buddleia as well as other flowers, and many other persons gave generously. From Mrs. Roberts' restaurant and Meinzer's Pie Shop were obtained the gallon containers which held all the flowers. Mr. Paxman helped out when even the club house dinner were failed to provide enough for 160 guests. The waitresses were girls from the sophomore class.

A. J. section, presided as toastmaster and, in a very happy manner, introduced the speakers. Fred Myers, senior president, spoke for his class, and Robert Lessing for the Alumni Association. The programs carried the following list of toasts:

Extempore, Beulah Cooper; Gang-plank, Joe Tavan; Cabin 1930, John Young; Pilot, Miss Burnham; Gay Serpentine, Muriel Barnes; Boy Voyake, Mr. Wood.

A male quartette, trained by Mrs. Elschen, gave Flagg's "Ships." These boys were Leonard Lock, Dallas Danford, Glenn Tolson and Paul Lessing. John Young was their accompanist.

Dancing was the order of the evening until 11:30 when the party broke up. The juniors put many weeks and much hard work into the planning and carrying out of this affair, and it was such a beautiful party that they were very happy in its success, and in the fine spirit of each member of the class which made such a splendid consummation possible. The junior class-room teachers are Miss Marguerite Jones, Miss Katherine Miller, and Mr. William Burk.

Lovely Luncheon Given at Pacific Coast Club

At one of the loveliest bridge luncheons of the social year, Mrs. John W. McMillan and Mrs. Raymond Young were co-hostesses to a large number of Torrance matrons at the Pacific Coast club in Long Beach Friday.

Covers were placed for forty-five guests at luncheon tables arranged in semicircular effect around a lovely fountain banked with flowers. Baskets of low banked flowers were used effectively on the tables, which were beautiful with pastel appointments. Tall ivory taper gave the affair a lovely and intimate atmosphere.

Honors for high score at bridge were awarded to Mrs. Ed Frenger, second to Mrs. E. C. Nelson, third to Mrs. Fay Parks, and consolation to Mrs. C. T. Ripby.

Favors for those who did not play cards were dainty red baskets filled with candied grapefruit peel coated with pastel colored sugars.

PRETTY PARTY AT SMITH HOME

Mrs. Louis Smith was hostess to her club at a pretty dessert bridge at her home on Gramercy avenue last Friday. Spring flowers in shades of pink charmingly decorated the table. Bridge honors were awarded to Mrs. Otto Batsch, and second to Miss Rose Ortmann.

Present were Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. C. G. Hornell, Mrs. Charles Vonderhage, Mrs. Otto Batsch, Mrs. L. Arnold, Misses Rose and Katherine Ortmann, and the hostess, Mrs. Louis Smith.
